

AEDs In The Workplace Special Report

An AED is an electronic device that can monitor whether a person's heart has stopped beating and deliver an electric shock to get it restarted. The beauty of the AED is that they enable even non-medical personnel to save lives. While AEDs come in different models, they operate the same basic way.

Download the Special Report to learn more!