

Company Fined $35K for OHS Violations

An employer was fined $35K for Safety Act violations. Although the press release doesn't say what happened or what the violations were, it notes that employers must have an OHS program that's 'current and relevant to the potential hazards at their worksite, including hazardous substances' North West Company LP, [Govt. Press Release, Jan. 28, 2019].