

How to Convince Upper Management of the Necessity for Safety Compliance

Speaker: Richard Tobin, President & CEO at Bongarde

The OSHA Act in the US and Provincial OHS Legislation in Canada mandate that every organization provide a hazard-free working environment and comply with standards, many of which require training.

But how do you convince senior management that safety compliance is a necessary contributor to a healthy bottom line?

Learn how you can effectively use risk analysis, case stories, and ROI analysis to show the intrinsic value of safety compliance.

Some leaders are reluctant to spend money on OHS. They think like financial managers. They have a budget and lots of other competing priorities. Learn how to “speak their language” and get the resources you need to build a safety culture.