

Naloxone Hazard Workplace Assessment Form

Should you implement a naloxone program in case somebody suffers an opioid overdose at your workplace? Here's a template assessment form you can use to make that determination. Note: If you're in Ontario, you must implement a naloxone program if the risk of overdose at your site is high.

Need for Workplace Naloxone Program Assessment

Company Name:	Date:
RISK: (List all staff, client groups, visitors and members of the public who may be at risk of suffering an opioid overdose at your workplace)
RISK ASSESSMENT: (Provide a general description of the risks to staff, client groups and members of the public)
RISK CONTROLS: (Provide a general description of the measures, if any, that are currently in place to minimize the identified risks to each group and what, if any, gaps exist)
RISK LIKELIHOOD: Likelihood of overdose in your workplace. (Circle one) High Low Comments:
RISK CONSEQUENCES: Describe the severity of the consequences that might occur if an overdose did happen at your workplace and you don't keep naloxone at the site.
RECOMMENDATIONS:	