

OHS Training Log

Keep detailed records of the safety training you provide to each worker.

In addition to documenting that you provide required OHS training, maintaining a training log like the one below enables you to track when employees were trained and on what subjects and topics so you can determine when retraining and refresher training may be required. This is a simplified log form that can be used in either an electronic or paper format.