About Kevin Burns

In addition to being a safety speaker, seven-time author on human motivation and performance, a management consultant and an award-winning marketing strategist, Kevin Burns has been working with safety managers, front-line supervisors and staff in safety for over fifteen years. Kevin comes from the Operations side of safety – integrating middle-management, leadership, Human Resources, engagement, recruiting/retention, communications and marketing strategies into safety. His specialty is in helping employees look forward to safety meetings – which creates safety engagement. He is available as a keynote speaker for safety meetings and as a consultant to help develop better communication strategies through safety meetings and safety promotion. He is based in Calgary, Alberta, Canada <http://www.kevburns.com>
