

Religious Accommodations Request Form

Under human rights laws, workers with sincerely held religious beliefs are entitled to accommodations from company safety and other policies provided that they don't impose undue hardship. So, you need to have a mechanism in place to field and process accommodations requests, starting with a request form providing the information you need to evaluate the request. Here's a template you can adapt.