

Working Alone or In Isolation Safety Policy

Protecting workers exposed to hazards in sites or situations where help isn't readily available.

Employers are advised to establish and put into effect a policy for assessing and controlling the safety risks to workers who do their jobs alone or in isolation and not in a position to summon immediate help. In some jurisdictions, that may include telecommuters who work from home. Here's a model policy you can adapt.